

MAKING THE GRADE

EFFECTIVE TEACHING IN EVERY CLASSROOM

Did You Miss Our Webinar on Teacher Effectiveness? You Can Still Watch

Our recent webinar update on Pennsylvania's efforts to bolster student achievement through improved teacher effectiveness was viewed by hundreds of educators statewide.

Some asked that we make the 40-minute presentation available for those who missed it the first time – and we're happy to oblige.

This webinar - co-hosted by Pennsylvania Partnerships for Children (PPC) and the Pennsylvania Association of Intermediate Units (PAIU) - focuses on the Pennsylvania Department of Education's ongoing pilot program focused on improving teacher effectiveness. The department is developing a statewide evaluation system that uses multiple measures to help teachers get the constructive feedback they need and deserve to bolster classroom performance and help all students achieve.

In addition to discussing the current phase of the evaluation pilot program, Carolyn Dumaresq, PDE's deputy secretary for PDE's Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, uses the webinar to outline plans for the next phase of the pilot in the 2012-13 school year.
